

ANTI-BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION POLICY

Policy

CEC Entertainment, Inc. and its subsidiaries (collectively referred to as the “Company”) strictly prohibit engaging in or tolerating bribery or any other form of corruption by a director, officer, employee, or any other person working for or on behalf of the Company (referred to herein as “You”).

You must not give or promise, directly or indirectly, money or anything of value to any person for improper purposes, including for the purpose of obtaining or retaining business for the Company, inducing that person or any other person to act, rewarding him/her for acting, or securing an advantage, improperly or otherwise.

You also must not solicit or accept, directly or indirectly, money or anything of value from any person for improper purposes, including for the purpose of assisting that person in improperly obtaining or maintaining a business relationship with the Company.

Scope

This policy applies to dealings with government officials, business partners, and employees. In many cases, local prohibitions and requirements regarding government and other public officials will be stricter than those applicable to non-government business partners and employees. When dealing with government officials, You must be aware of any requirements and prohibitions applicable to such officials.

This policy prohibits conveying anything of value either directly by You or indirectly through agents, contractors, intermediaries, franchisees, or other third parties. Providing benefits to family members is also prohibited.

This policy applies even if a person, including a government official, demands or suggests the payment. If You receive a demand or suggestion, no payment should be made and You should immediately report it to your supervisor, the Chief Compliance Officer, or in the manner provided in the Company’s Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (“the Company Code”) in the section titled “Reporting Any Illegal or Unethical Behavior.”

This policy covers the circumstances under which gifts, meals, entertainment and other forms of hospitality may be appropriate. As described below, it is important to recognize that the law and rules for giving or receiving such items are different for a government official than they are for a private person. Also, such items should never be given or received with such frequency that it appears that an effort is being made to avoid restrictions under local law or this policy.

Bribery

Bribes are usually designed to obtain financial benefits or other personal gain. For example, bribes are intended to influence behavior – they could be in the form of money, a privilege, an object of value, an advantage, or merely a promise to influence a person in an official or public capacity. Usually, two people are involved and both will benefit. Examples of a Bribe include:

1. Offer or receipt of cash in the form of a kickback, loan, fee or reward; and
2. Giving of aid, donations or voting designed to exert improper influence.

The areas of business where corruption, including bribery, can most often occur include:

1. Gifts, Entertainment and Hospitality;
2. Facilitation Payments;
3. Procurement Process; or
4. Political, Community and Charitable Contributions.

Accounting

The Company is required to maintain books and records that accurately and fairly reflect all transactions. Therefore, you must ensure that any and all entries that you make or cause anyone else to make are accurate. The Company also requires accounting for transactions in sufficient detail so that improper payments cannot be hidden from detection and review. If you make or cause another to make any false entry in the Company's books and records, or are a party to the creation of any false or misleading document that supports the disbursement of funds, You shall be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Gifts

You may not give or receive gifts in connection with the Company's business except in accordance with this policy.

No gift may be given to a government official unless specifically allowed by written local law and you have received prior written approval from the Chief Compliance Officer.

You may give or receive a gift from a private person without prior approval from the Chief Compliance Officer only if all of the following circumstances are met:

- the gift is appropriate under legitimate and generally accepted local law and custom;
- the gift is permitted by the rules of the recipient's employer;
- the item is of nominal value (examples include logo cups, hats, shirts, USB drives, calendars and notebooks which bear a company or other official logo); and
- the expenses related to the gift are supported by receipts, approved in accordance with the Company policies, and accurately recorded in the Company's books and records. In the event that a cash advance is obtained to pay for a permissible gift, appropriate documentation of the expense must be maintained and submitted pursuant to the Company's Business Expense and Travel Policy.

You must receive prior written approval from the Legal department before you accept any other types of gifts.

Entertainment and Hospitality

The Company recognizes that normal entertainment and hospitality, including meals and refreshments, are accepted practices, but certain persons, like government officials, are subject to limitations on what they may accept or offer.

Before You offer or receive any entertainment or hospitality, including meals and refreshments, You should ask yourself:

- Does it legitimately support our business?
- Is it reasonable, proportionate, and customary?
- Could it be viewed as an attempt to improperly influence a business decision or government action?
- Would this embarrass You or the Company if it was on the front page of the newspaper?
- If You are unsure of the answer to any of these questions, You must seek guidance from your supervisor or the Chief Compliance Officer.

Entertainment or hospitality expenses, including meals and refreshments, are never permissible, regardless of the amount, if the purpose of incurring them is to improperly influence a decision by a government official, including an official who is involved in regulatory inspections, reviews, or approvals involving the Company's business.

You may give or receive business entertainment or hospitality, including meals and refreshments, without prior approval from the Chief Compliance Officer only if all of the following conditions are met:

- the main purpose of the meeting at which the meal, refreshments or entertainment is provided is discussion of specific projects or opportunities or education regarding the Company's products, and the meeting is attended by the appropriate Company representatives;
- the meal, refreshments or entertainment is permitted by local law and custom, as well as the rules of the recipient's employer; and
- the cost of the meal, refreshments or entertainment is:
 - less than $25 or the equivalent in another currency for a government official; and
 - less than $150 or the equivalent in another currency for a private person.

You must receive prior written approval from the Chief Compliance Officer before you accept any other forms of business entertainment or hospitality, including meals and refreshments.

Sponsored Travel by Customers, Suppliers and Other Business Partners

In appropriate circumstances, with advance written approval from the Chief Compliance Officer, the Company may pay reasonable and bona fide expenditures, such as travel and lodging expenses, incurred by or on behalf of an actual or potential business partner where the expenditures are directly related to the promotion, demonstration, or explanation of the Company's products or services or the Company's performance of a contract with such business partner.

Use of Agents, Consultants, and Other Third Parties

The Company occasionally engages third parties to act on its behalf, including agents, sales representatives, distributors, contractors, finders, consultants, business partners, or other third parties (referred to in this policy as "Agents"). It is vitally important that the Company know who they are and what they are doing on our behalf. Agents also must understand that they are required to comply with the Company's standards for preventing bribery and corruption—Code of Business Conduct and Ethics for Business Partners which can be found under "Governance" on our web page at <https://www.chuckecheese.com/company/investor-relations>.

Before entering in an agreement with an Agent, "due diligence" must be conducted. This typically should include collecting information about the potential Agent to determine if he or she is qualified for the position, whether he or she has personal or professional ties to the government, the number and reputation of his or her clientele, and his or her reputation with clients and business associates. A due diligence checklist is included as Appendix I.

Every agreement with an Agent must be in writing and approved in advance in writing by the Chief Compliance Officer. The agreement must require that the Agent comply with the Company's Code of Business Conduct and Ethics for Business Partners, this Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy, and any applicable anti-corruption laws. In addition, all Agents must sign the certification attached hereto as Appendix II.

Finally, You must be alert to and report to your supervisor any "red flags" or warning signs involving an Agent. Examples of "red flags" include unusual payment patterns or financial arrangements, prior allegations or charges of corruption, a refusal by the Agent to sign a Certification of Compliance with this policy, unusually high commissions, lack of transparency in expenses and accounting records, apparent lack of qualifications or resources on the part of the Agent to perform the services offered, and whether the Agent has been recommended by an official of the potential government customer.

Facilitating, "Speed" or "Grease" Payments

Facilitation Payments are not allowed. Although some anti-bribery laws permit payments to government officials in limited circumstances for the purpose of facilitating or expediting the administrative performance of routine governmental actions, the Company strictly prohibits such payments by its directors, officers, employees, and Agents. If you are unsure whether certain payments represent Facilitation Payments, please contact the Chief Compliance Officer as soon as possible.

Procurement Process

You must follow Company processes and adhere to the system of internal controls relating to supplier selection. Supplier selection should never be based on receipt of a gift, hospitality or payment. When supplier selection is a formal, structured invitation for the supply of products or services (often called a “bid”), it is most important that we maintain documentation supporting our internal controls. In the public sector, such a bid process may be required and determined in detail by law to ensure that such competition for the use of public money is open, fair and free from corruption.

A bid process includes an invitation for other parties to make a proposal, on the understanding that any competition for the relevant contract must be conducted in response to the tender, no parties having the unfair advantage of separate, prior, closed-door negotiations for the contract where a bidding process is open to all qualified bidders and where the sealed bids are in the open for scrutiny and are chosen on the basis of price and quality.

Political Community and Charitable Contributions

You are not allowed to make political contributions from Company funds without authorization (which includes but is not limited to, expensing such contributions on your expense report). Political contributions, as permitted by law, must be approved in advance by our Chief Compliance Officer.

Contributions made by the Company to community projects or charities need to be made in good faith and in compliance with our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics and this Policy and all relevant Company policies and procedures.

Training

The Company recognizes the importance of providing training to directors, officers, and employees who are likely to interact with government officials or business partners. The Company will provide and You are required to undertake appropriate training on this policy and the related legal issues on an annual basis if your job responsibilities include these types of interactions.

Disciplinary Action for Failure to Comply

Any and all Company directors, officers, and employees who fail to comply with this policy or any applicable anti-corruption laws, will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Responsibility for Policy and Periodic Review

The Chief Compliance Officer is assigned overall responsibility for this policy; however, every director, officer and employee of the Company has a responsibility to follow the policy and to be alert to potential violations by others. This policy will be reviewed and evaluated periodically to ensure that it is aligned with and addresses risks the Company faces.

Raising Questions and Reporting Concerns

Any questions about this policy or its application to any particular set of facts should be referred to the Chief Compliance Officer.

If You see or hear about a potential violation of this policy by a director, officer, employee, or Agent in connection with the Company's business, You must not "close your eyes" to the issue.

Your supervisor is usually a good place to start with a compliance or integrity issue. You may also get help or advice from your supervisor's supervisor, the head of your department or location, the Legal or Human Resources department. Additionally, you may report violations or potential violations of applicable laws, rules and regulations or of our codes, policies and procedures, by (1) calling our Compliance Hotline at 1-800-789-5216 or (2) our dedicated and secure reporting website, which is located at <https://cecentertainment.ethicspoint.com>.

The Company will not tolerate retaliation against anyone who in good faith raises concerns about possible violations of this policy and no adverse employment action will be taken against You for reporting possible violations in the manner described in the Company Code.

Appendix I

Third Party Due Diligence Checklist

The following checklist provides an illustrative, but not exhaustive, list of steps that can be used to evaluate agents, sales representatives, distributors, contractors, finders, consultants, business partners or other third parties (referred to herein as an “Agent”):

- Complete the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Due Diligence Questionnaire (the “Questionnaire”) for the Agent;
- Obtain and check references from prior parties that have worked with the Agent;
- Conduct an in-person interview with the Agent, preferably at his or her place of business;
- Depending on the nature of the work, the Agent will perform for the Company, the following additional steps may be undertaken in consultation with the Chief Compliance Officer:
 - o Search public records regarding all relevant persons and entities identified in the Questionnaire (e.g., employees, owners, officers, or directors of the Agent).
 - The records should be searched for any criminal record or bankruptcies for the relevant persons and to determine that no relevant persons are on lists of designated or denied persons, terrorist watch lists, or similar designations
 - o Commission a background check utilizing a private investigator, outside counsel, or an outside forensic accounting firm, as appropriate.
